“ I remember Lee Lee visiting my mom, Lula Merritt, almost daily. They were good friends. Lee Lee would come over and sing, he had the best baritoned laugh that would fill a room, you could tell it came from deep within his soul. Lee Lee was a light to those who could stop and take notice of his heart. His presence could easily fill-up any space and I loved to listen to his stories and see him light up every time he talked about his time as a musician. I hope he knew how special God had created him. He will be missed by the Merritt family and I know my mom will miss her dear friend and their daily phone calls. Prayers to his family and friends, may God keep you.
