

Clifton Erving Privott

September 6, 1991 - September 21, 2022

Clifton Erving Privott was many things: a proud and devoted father, a beloved son, a loving brother, a steadfast friend, an independent thinker, a natural comedian, and a talented entertainer. With the release of his first album on Amazon Prime, Spotify, YouTube Music, and Sound Cloud, among other sites, he was, according to a local critic, “well on his way to becoming one the bigger names in rap music in 757.”

As family and friends affectionately knew him, CeCe was born on September 6, 1991, the son of Melonese Waters Privott and Clifton Eugene Privott, and departed this life on September 21, 2022. He is survived by his children, King Amari Privott and Payton Dakota Privott; his parents, Melonese Privott and Clifton Privott; his siblings, Doris Stokes (Jamie Stokes), Darryl Waters (Curtia Waters), Dominique Clay (Montrese Clay), and Vivian Coleman; his aunts and uncles, Cherri Waters and Raymond Crowel, Irvania Waters and José Allen, Doris Franklin, Felicia Cheatham, Peressa Porter, Salathiel White, Rashonda Jones, Tanya Lundy, and Raytron White; his nieces and nephews, Kennedy Carter, Ronnesha Coleman, Kahlil Waters, and Boston Waters; his cousins Derrick Hurdle, London Franklin, and Tariq Franklin who were more like brothers, Jeffrey Allen, Elizabeth Allen, and Ryan Franklin; his godparents, Alvareia Ragin-James and James Humphrey; and too many other relatives and friends to name here.

He was deeply loved and will be sorely missed. But he will be remembered in the beautiful faces of his children, the stories we tell that will make us laugh, and in many memories that we will treasure.
