“ I knew Dave through various Facebook groups. We'd beens for a few years with other like-minded folks. Dave had a kind heart and made a lot of us feel special over the years through his hilariously outrageous memes. He holds a special place in my heart.

“ Hey brotha, just wanted to say it sucks you're gone. I remember a few times we talked on the phone, how you had encouraged me to do things I shied away from. There was a time also that you talked about going to Cali to meet some of our mutual friends and you'd make your way here to Texas, I mentioned that you're more than welcome to come and chill at our house, we'd throw a BBQ and bs throughout the day. I wish that happened sooner, but it wasn't meant to be. I'll miss our convos, it was good knowing you. Much love man, rest easy. 💔

“ Dave was a great friend to me, I never had the pleasure to meet him, a big regret of mine. He was such a genuine and funny friend. I'm so sorry for your loss and I know one day we will cross paths. Rest easy my friend, my brother.

“ David and I grew up together. We were the same age, and he was a fixture of my childhood. His family was my extended family. I have so many memories of playing tag, hide and seek, board games, card games, and video games. Many years later, in our 20s, we went out together. Was it as friends? Or a date? Whatever it was, it was fun. Maybe it was a date, because we both decided that it was also weird. We grew up practically being brother and sister. So we stayed friends. Many years after that, I loved meeting David's family and his beautiful girls. I was so happy for him. And now, I'm simply heartbroken. He was a good guy, who worked hard, and loved his family. And he's gone way too soon. Rest in peace, brother. With much love, and sadness, ~Gail L.
