“ My sweet, sweet co-worker, Eric. I remember all our discussions on your health and how this same illness took my daughter and how head strong you persisted in having your way and the talks about how this illness would affect you further down the line. Finally, you have been relieved of all the suffering and now we are left with all the happiness of knowing you for such a short and brief time. God grant your family and loved ones the peace of knowing that all the suffering is over and give them the strength to carry on.
