“ I miss you dad. I wish you were here with us right now. Growing up wishing you could be next to me and guiding me every step of the way. I never got the chance to bond with you, but I know you are watching down on me. I made a promise to myself to do it for you, and never give up. I'm a Junior in High School now, almost 17. I have one more year til I can say I did it! Your sister Monique, along with my uncles your brothers, and your mother my precious Grandmother, have always been there for me, and made sure I took the right path, giving me motivational talks, telling me right from wrong. You had the best family anyone could ask for. I appreciate them so much for supporting me because who could I call.. I love you dad. Keep watching down on me, and everyone who was important to you because we need it. I promise for you it's gonna get done! #EMH4L

“ Deepest sympathy to family, friends, and love ones. Ma, Mo, Marquis, and Jordan the imprints from Eric footprints have stretched an endless mile or more some light and faint, some drag in lines bitterly sore. At times we all can reflect him oddly floating that's when love swept in or God was gracefully carrying him. These footprints were left hoping that they have or will help others make a good start even help one to continue doing good knowing that your imprints should be as sweet as an angel in all lives that you'll meet. Just know that the footprints we now grieve over will last a lifetime every heart and soul touched will carry on his memory. I'm grateful enough to know this great person a son grandson brother nephew cousin father and friend. Thank you Ma for being such a strong woman for not only your self but for all of us reminding us (quote) we can't change these things in life all we can do is be prepared and strong. Deepest of our love and sympathy. The Covington and Lawton family

“ Dear Faith and the Family,
You may or may not remember me, but I am Joshua’s mother we use to live a couple doors apart on Radford Circle. I am so sorry for your loss. Maybe these words will help your hearts.

*A life so young released to heaven, left on earth, we wonder, WHY?
But some are sent among us briefly, some have spirits meant to fly.
When thick clouds seem to hide the sun, Some sunbeams shine on through, The same holds true for memories, When loved ones leave our view.*

You and the Family will continually be in my prayers.

Words cannot express the sorrow that I truly feel for your family at this time. But I know a God that speaks peace and surpasses all understanding. One whom holds the world in His hands. And I believe that he is with your family right now. Continue to look to God for guidance and I am a living witness that He will be there. “ Continued Violence in our cities have took another life and left another child without a father. Parents need to teach their children and raise them to respect life and then families that do take the time to raise their children properly will not have to see their loved one leave Earth in this manner. It's sad and for what? My heart goes out to any family that losses a loved one to violence. My prayers stay with his child!##imported-begin##Christa "Pup" Johnson##imported-end##

“ My most sincere and heartfelt sympathy is extended to all who ache in this most difficult time before us. We are here on this earth but a brief moment for this life, and too often, things beyond our control lessen that brief moment. The pain for our families is immeasurable, the tragedy almost unbearable. It is with the strength from Jesus Christ that we will endure this hardship. Though the times will be difficult, with many moments of tears and deep, deep sorrow, we must take comfort in knowing that our Lord is all mighty and will most certainly see us through. Let not our hearts be heavy with the burdens and regrets of that which we cannot control. Let us pray for each other, let us hold each other, and realize the sacredness of our lives and the lives of our loved ones. Eric, my dearest nephew, you will be missed; you will be loved, eternally. I love you child of my brother, child of Faith, child of Christ. Rest my beloved, rest in Peace. To the heaven's we say Amen, amen, and amen.##imported-begin##Uncle Andy (Andre L.
