“ Gene meant a lot to a lot of people, me personally he was a friend, big brother, mentor, and eventually colleague. His musical genius was next to none, he was proficient in every aspect of his musical career be it performing or instructing, and he shared that passion with anyone who had the pleasure of crossing his path. Although a musical genius in his own right, being a father, son, and brother were probably his greatest accolade. To be absent from the body is to present with the Lord. Well Gene, let the heavens resound with your magnificent sound!!
