“ You were one of kind. A smart man. A talented man. A friend. You're gonna be a handful in Heaven. Don't play that bass too loud, you don't want to drowned out the Angels. I'll miss you friend. Prayers for Sam and the girls.

“ George Horton was a good friend to my brother, Allen Hagerman, and over the years he became a good friend to us also. No matter where life led us or the circumstances we could always rely on an email from him. He always included us in his group of friends that way. We'll miss George! We'll miss just knowing that he's in the world. To the family we send our warm and humble sympathy. May God's peace surround you as His love lifts you!

“ I remember the times I would go see Dad (that's what I called him) he would always ask me hey you want a drink :) of course I would say yes. Then we would go to the back yard and he would show me his firewood we would talk about computers and he would always show me a new toy he picked up. Going to miss you dad. Rest In Peace!
