We remember now In love..your life from start to end,and we are just glad we know you as a mother,a grandmother,a friend and most importantly a mentor..if I could write a story about you dear mother..it would be the greatest ever told of a kind and warm heart..a kind and loving warm heart of a caring mother who had a generous heart of gold. Diction fail in providing the right word that would correctly describe your sterling qualities,the images fill my heart but my education could not arm me with words to say how you was.big mummy sisi jaiyeola..you were the most precious and most beautiful..shine once more like u did before..you were a bundle of inspiration to all around you..your kind soul,wise counsel and outstretched hands can't be quantified..you gave me life nurtured me,you loved me unconditionally and taught me how to forthrightness and my strength of character to love truly and the beauty of forgiveness..mum I dedicate this writing to your memory ! Just know that you have touched so many lives during your stay with us on earth..and for that we are forever grateful..if I had to choose again I would choose you over and over again..love u to the moon and back..adeiu mamii

“ My dearest sister. You left us too soon. Just a few hours before you left we were at church together giving praise to God. I'm grateful to God that this was your last formal event in this world. I enjoyed spending time with you and really getting to know you these past 2 weeks. I'm sad, but I take comfort in knowing you're in a better place. Your brother, Ladipo Oluwole
