“ Hey Jamar it's Jada, your little sister. I'm sorry I couldn't be in your life as much as I wanted to be. I'm sorry I never answered your calls which I now regret because I was too scared to talk to you because it's been such a long time. The last time I saw you was when we all went bowling as a family. When I first heard the news that you passed, I was so confused I wanted to live in denial because I felt like there was no way you could've passed at such a young age. I hope that you're enjoying you're in heaven you deserve it. You were such a great person and never caused harm to anyone. Until we meet again

Love, Jada

“ Hey big bro it's your little sister. Its been two years since you passed. I just wanted one last hug before you left. I had my baby after you left. I miss you so much. I cry almost every night from seeing you laying lifeless in front of me on the ground before you were put into the funeral house. I do regret a lot of things I didn't do for you. Its to late to apologize I miss hearing you sing. You helped me out with my self esteem now I realized you were really a great sibling.

“ Be that powerhouse you've always been in heaven, bro. You are an awesome person and I miss you. I wish you were able to meet your second nephew in person, but I know you are looking down at him.

See you again, someday. I love you.

“ 🌸 *Dear son Jamar,
A humble helpful person. My earliest walker... 9 months. My pool practicing partner, bowler, artist, singer, whistler, video game player, craft maker, video maker, joke teller, big brother, little brother, son, uncle, nephew, great nephew, cousin, friend. Hardly ever complain.*

He worked for God 🙏

His work on Earth is done in 25 years. I wish you were still here son. Rest peacefully in paradise. I will always love you 🥺💔💔 you earned your wings 🙌 fly high son💕

Always in my heart Jamar W. Spruill
