“ Though this is a hard time and many tears still have not been released. Grandma I will really miss you and the effort of trying but not getting to say goodbye, i've now understood that it's not goodbye but a welcome that you will receive. So to this I say hello because I know you are always amongst us all, and your love will be carried because I will continue in your footsteps, Grandpa will be taken care of even if I have to relocate to make sure of that... I love you so much and I will miss you. Please keep a space reserved for me...I LOVE YOU##imported-begin##Marquita Niree Marshburn##imported-end##

“ My sympathy to the family. I know this is a difficult time for you, that is why I would like to share some scriptural comfort with you. In doing so I would ask you to remember yesterday, when you enjoyed the company and the joy of being with your loved one. Today is sad because she is not with you, but think of tomorrow that has been promised to us by the God of love, hope and comfort. Because he gave his only begotten Son Jesus Christ to open the way for our salvation and everlasting life through the resurrection. Jesus tells us at John 5:28-29 that there will be a resurrection. He shows us how it will take place at John 11:43-44, where he called Lazarus from the grave. He left a vision with John to show us life after the resurrection at Revelation 21:4 as he says: "DEATH WILL BE NO MORE." At Revelation 22:1-2 he shows us the provisions of life: (1) "The river of water of life, (2) The trees of life bearing fruit, (3) The leaves of the trees for the curing of the nations." We can look forward to seeing our loved ones again in the tomorrow that has been promised as Hebrews 13:8 says: "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today, and forever." I hope you find comfort in these blessings from Jehovah through his Son Jesus Christ.##imported-begin##Annetta M. Lee##imported-end##
