“ I can't believe it's been this long since your passing, it seems as though everything happened yesterday. I didn't know you but I think I can remember seeing you around campus sometimes. I just wanted to say that since you and Jauwan have been gone, a lot has been on my mind about how you shouldn't take life for granted because you never know when it will be your last. You had so much potential as a football player and now all of that's gone. I can't imagine what your mom and your girlfriend are going through. Every day, I see your girlfriend post Facebook statuses about you on her page and yours and it makes me sad because I know she's going through it and I keep her in my prayers. None of this had to happen and it's not your fault, we all make mistakes...God was just ready for you to be home with him. I know your having a great time in Heaven right now lol and I want you to know that you and Jauwan's passing has had a big impact on my life and has changed my outlook on life as an individual ?

“ If you didn't know Marvell the way I knew him then let me tell you that you surely missed out. Fighter, Warrior, Determined, Hardworking, Polite, are just a few of the words that pop up when you speak his name. I remember hearing rumors about him when he was playing Pop Warner, but actually began coaching high school the year that he played JV at the high school. My coaching career grew around him and the rest of the Puppies as they were known back then. I had the pleasure of seeing Marvell one last time last weekend up at Va State and of course I was on his case for not being on the football team at that time. But no matter how many times I rode him about getting back on the field, doing well in school or anything else he always finished it with "Yes Sir Coach". For those that were at his funeral, and again those that truly knew Marvell would have noticed that when they released the first Dove he flew away alone, and then they released the five Doves together. The five stayed together the entire time as they flew away, and just as they were getting out of sight the first one came back to join them.... That was Marvell because he would never leave the team.....

“ You didn't know me personally, and I didn't know you personally but i seen you around campus and I feel like I have to speak on my VSU16 brother. It's still just so crazy to me, how things played out. You were truly a blessing to everyone that you came in contact with and you left your mark on all of our hearts. May you Rest In Paradise baby boy and PLEASE Return If Possible. Watch over everyone and save your loved ones a spot up there. Until we see that beautiful smile again, help everybody stay up. We love you number five and we will continue to be proud of you! Stay Alive 5, we won't let you die <3

“ Kim, these words are for you and your husband Marvell. I was unable to be at the funeral today for I was in Florida. You have been constant in my prayers, and I mean that very literally. I am sorry for your great loss. This will likely be the hardest event in your lives to absorb and grieve through. May you pull together and hold each other firmly in each other's arms as you experience this season of sadness together. Be patient with yourselves as you walk through this valley of the shadow of death.....for He is with you, and He will comfort you. May I give you a hug from afar. Lois Hancock

“ Marvell, please accept my sincere condolences for your loss. I never got the chance to meet your son. From the pictures, Terrell was a mini-"YOU". My thoughts and prayers are with you during this very difficult time. As a father of two boys, I cannot begin to understand your thoughts and feelings. My heart bleeds for you. God bless you and keep you.

“ I remember Terrell as a little baby. He was such a cute little big head boy. I never got to see him grow. My son, Keith, got a chance to meet him 2 yrs ago & has been talking about his talent in drawing every since. My heart is broken & I just wish I could be there to hug his Mom. RIP #5 you will be missed.

“ I had the pleasure and privilege of teaching Marvell at Churchland Middle School in my algebra classes. He was a well-liked student - popular. He was always kind to all of his fellow students even those that others found it easy to bully and make fun of. He was always respectful to me and told me often how he wanted to "be good in math" - he had goals and wanted to be successful. I am so saddened by this loss - the world would be a better place with him still here. I pray for his family and hope their good memories bring them some comfort.
