“ One of my favorite memories with Rashad was when I would come home after many hours of work, he would smile at me and tell me that his heart wants me to stay the day with him. We would lay down in our bed and constantly remind each other that we loved each other and that no matter what we had to take care of each other. Rest in paradise my love.

“ Rashad , it still feel like an unrealistic dream to me that you aren't here anymore 😭. I kinda got use to the idea of having a lil brother around, we shared clothes, fights with others , jobs, laughs, homes, fears , secrets but most importantly, a brotherhood !!! I just can't seem to fathom this no matter how many post I see of those that loved you mourn the loss of you . So forgive me if this takes sometime getting the hint . Your big smile & personality is such a great loss bro . You definitely made your mark in everything you set out to do . I love you beyond the stars ! Give Nannie a kiss for me bro and tell her that I love her & you so much. God only knows why , so I won't question it but this one definitely hurts 🙏!!! May you rest In peace and power

“ Rashad illuminated lives with his infectious laughter and vibrant personality. He had the ability to find joy in every moment and spread that happiness to everyone he met. Though he may no longer be with us physically, his presence will be felt in every smile, every laugh, and every cherished moment. Until we meet again, cousin, may you rest in eternal peace.

“ Knowing Shad was a blessing.. for him coming into my life and bringing a smile that lit up any room was such a joy that anyone could embrace. Very few ppl has had the effect that Shad had .. so warm, inviting , hospitable. Taught me how to make some good fried chicken lol but none the less I cherish the laughter and bond we had. I will never question God, but he took an angel on earth and gave him wings to fly up and be with him. My Love for him and the family remains. Always have , and always will. I can still hear his voice and laugh .. that'll never go away. I love you man. Watch over us down here

“ Rashad and I (sieh) were actually just starting to really warm up to each other. We didn't talk as much but, our relationship was different than most people; we would just scare each other, either on purpose or on accident but that was just our thing. I loved it because it meant we were comfortable with each other. He was the only one I knew that would wake up in the middle of the night and just build something or fix something up and then go right back to sleep. What an interesting person he was.

“ Rashad's smile was infectious. With those deep grooves in his cheeks where his dimples resided were like tiny pools of sunshine that mirrored his inherent kindness and warmth. Though our paths didn't cross often,, you was family and family equals love, so you will be missed.

“ I just want to extend my prayers and condolences to Rashad’s family. Back in December Rashad and I had a nice conversation going on and we both enjoyed our time that we shared. I’ve been knowing Rashad and his family for a long time. When I got the news that he had passed, I was really heartbroken. We have always had good conversations whenever we were together. I was always glad to see him whenever he was in town. Rashad Rest In Paradise and know that all your pain and suffering is now over. You will truly be missed and you are Loved. Family hang in there. I’m praying for y’all. Love y’all. 🙏🙏🙏🙏🌸🌸🌸🌸👍👍👍👍

“ Rashad and I (Jalen), always had short conversations; full of energy he always started with a “howdy howdy.” As time went on it became a tradition for our conversation. Even in the end.
