“ It been 3 years and everyday i'm getting worse and worse it because your not here i wish we had a better bond in life i'm sorry for everything i ever did to you and mom I love you both and yall are in my heart still and btw I play football for the same jv team you play at southern nash high I hope ur proud of me cause im doing this for you and mom to make ya'll happy.A father is the one we always look up to for advice and encouragement, whether he is strict or lenient. We don't always communicate our feelings to him, but writing a letter to dad to say “thank you” or “I love you” could be a sweet way to touch this heart. He's also the one who says ‘yes’ to our insane ideas even when no one else will. A father's role in the lives of his child is critical. His hand on our shoulder is all it takes to make us feel protected and motivated to keep moving forward. Continue reading this post to see some sample letters from which you can take inspiration to write down your feelings for your dad and bring him joy.
