

Rose Mary Pitts-Jenkins

March 18, 1948 - April 10, 2018

Rose Pitts-Jenkins lived a triumphant life. She embodied strength and was resilient in mind, body and spirit. Her fashion sense was very chic and trendy and her sassy personality was vibrant and magnetic. Although flawed, she owned her mistakes, accepted conviction and corrected what was within her control to the best of her ability. She held many accomplishments: Private School teacher for two year olds at Deep Creek Country Day School, director of Summer Day Camp in New York City for Messiah Baptist Church and a sales consultant for Tupperware and Empress Pearls. In addition to these accomplishments, she was an Eastern Star member of the Red Hat Sassy Sisters and a devout member and one of the mothers of Holy Temple Church. She attended Lehman College in New York City and Kaplan University Online where she made the Dean's List for honors.

However, what she was most known for among her family and friends was her exceptional gift for cooking and baking. It was because of her grace in the kitchen that she became the cornerstone of Cooper's Restaurant where she was most commonly known as "Mama D".

She is survived by her children: Supreme Truth Allah Reveal (Harris), Daniel W. Pitts, Kimberly M. Pitts, James C. Pitts, Donesha R. Pltts, El. Ras S. Shah Ta'fari (Lance).

Step-children: Dana Jenkins, Devin Jenkins, Devany Jenkins. Her sisters and brother: Delores Black, Myra E. Roland, Carol Ray, Ronald Perser, Kathleen Flanders (aunt) and a host of grandchildren, great-grand children, nieces, nephews, cousins, in-laws and friends.

“ Mama D was a beautifully kind-hearted woman. She will be missed by many. So grateful I was fortunate to meet her, if for just a short while. Christie Bradley, customer Cooper's
