“ I have missed you so many days and nights. The laughter we shared together was priceless. God needed his angel with him, and a beautiful angel she was. My friend always and forever.

“ There are no words that can describe the huge impact you had on my life. Since the day I was born to almost 26 years later your benevolent spirt continues to guide and shape me into the woman I am today. From the many smiles, laughs, and tears we have shared you have always been there for me. As a sister, a mentor, a best friend and so many other roles you have been for me. I love you so much and I am so very blessed to have had you in my life. I know that you will continue to guide and watch after me with a gentle smile and an eye roll. I will hold our memories in my heart until the day we meet again. All of my devoted love, Monica (Pooh)

“ Losing a loved one is never easy, but hopefully you have family and friends that can help you push past your hurt to celebrate the life that’s recently been lost.

Though death happens a lot in life, it’s still hard to deal with.

Getting through the loss of a loved one takes time and everyone’s journey to healing is unique.

Everyone is different and sometimes the journey can seem more than we can bear.

When this happens, we should remember to be grateful for the time we spent with our loved ones and know that they’re in a better place.

On Tuesday at 3am felt like all the air had left the room, my friend call me and told me our friend Tracy had died. Oh my GOD was all I could say, I physically was frozen. Then the 7 stages of grief began. I thought about our last interaction as we talked on the phone catching up and promising to do lunch, far to long ago. I reached out to other friends and my family with heart broken and spirit heavy conveying the loss of my high school classmate, band partner and college Bestie. Well Life happed and we drifted apart but no love was ever lost.

“ In all the years spent with Tracey at work , my fondest memory is when she would respond to something said at work with a smile and very slow lift of her right eyebrow. It usually meant she did not believe what she was hearing or she would be thinking, "It's better to just not say anything." But truly your soft spoken warm voice that never raised in anger to anyone, was what I will always remember. You were such a lovely flower that has gone to Heaven's Garden.

“ Tracey! "Peaches" is what they call you! I never in my life thought that I would have to bury my BEST FRIEND. I continue to struggle with the fact that you are gone. We laughed at the dumbest stuff, watched Games of Thrones religiously (betta not call us when it was on), talked about the stuff we did as young ladies, among so many other things. You were more than my BEST FRIEND. You were my sister, secret-keeper, advisor and one helluva cook! Heck, you taught me how to make mac and cheese, and you know I don't cook! I keep wanting to text and call you, but knowing that you will never answer the phone again. I do find peace knowing that you are with your sister and happy! I will always love and cherish you and our memories! Rest Easy Peaches (My name is Peaches and I'm the BEST)

LOVE YOU FO' EVER!!!!
